JUDICIAL RECORDS OF THE FRENCH SUPERIOR COUNCIL

Acc. #'s 1848, 1867

1714-1769, n.d.

108 ln. ft (216 boxes); 8 oversize boxes

These criminal and civil records, which comprise the heart of the museum's manuscript collection, are an invaluable source for researching Louisiana's colonial history. They record the social, political and economic lives of rich and poor, female and male, slave and free, African, Native, European and American colonials.

Although the majority of the cases deal with attempts by creditors to recover unpaid debts, the colonial collection includes many successions. These documents often contain a wealth of biographical information concerning Louisiana's colonial inhabitants. Estate inventories, records of commercial transactions, correspondence and copies of wills, marriage contracts and baptismal, marriage and burial records may be included in a succession document. The colonial document collection includes petitions by slaves requesting manumission, applications by merchants for licenses to conduct business, requests by ship captains for absolution from responsibility for cargo lost at sea, and requests by traders for permission to conduct business in Europe, the West Indies and British colonies in North America

Although there are no specific references to the 1795 slave conspiracy organized from the Poydras' estate; a letter dated "1795" and written to Goeau Duffief, a Pointe Coupee merchant, notes, "I have not heard anything of Cadet or from any of your family only that this was done at sea and they found themselves in the midst of the melee. Everything was entirely burned [] women, children cattle, homes [] keeps silent and never speak of what I have written of this revolution in any way." It is possible this reference is to events occurring in France rather than Pointe Coupee. Most of the letters were written in French. The collection houses a complete English translation of the letters. 1 item.

Note: the collection has been microfilmed. See "Records of Antebellum Southern Plantations." A WPA typescript is housed with the original.

1.5 ln. ft, 1 oversize box

This eclectic collection, much of it in poor condition, documents many facets of Louisiana history. It houses requests for land grants (Caillou and Timballier islands), a document concerning an 1807 divorce, several documents relating to David Morgan and the Battle of New Orleans and a ledger book kept by the Louisiana Bible Society. Other manuscripts document the emancipation, purchase, and mortgage of slaves. The collection includes a c. 1840 Democratic ticket, an invitation to a wedding ball held at the Bayou Goula Hotel, a copy of the act of sale of La Concession sugar plantation in Plaquemine Parish and a 1878 yellow fever patient register (Howard Association). Several documents concern the Civil War: a military pass, a Quartermaster's account book and inventory of stores, an amnesty oath, a housing expense voucher issued to David Collie, several General and Special orders and the muster rolls of the M. McDougall, David Collie, and C. C. Campbell Companies, Crescent Regiment, Louisiana Volunteers are included.

Those wishing to document late nineteenth century education in New Orleans should consult the ledger of Marie Girard which notes the names of those parents paying tuition to Girard 1874-1908. The collection also houses a daily journal for Corine Plantation, Plaquemine Parish, and a "record of work" performed at an unidentified rice plantation.

Late nineteenth and early twentieth century documents include Jordan Noble's ticket to the 1884 World's Fair, invitations to events commemorating the centennial of the Louisiana Purchase, and several pieces concerning World War I: included are a field service pocket book of Joseph Cusachs, coupon book, troop billet for ship passage, furlough ticket, and four printed postcards from Barnett Cusachs.

Included in the oversize box is a letter patent signed by Napoleon, several non-Louisiana nineteenth century land grants, a specimen copy of a stock certificate for two shares of capitol stock in the Public Belt Rail Road Association to the Mechanics Dealers and Lumberman's Exchange, three botanical scrapbooks (acc. #2144-2146) and several documents concerning Pierre Soule's ambassadorship to Spain.

Burkenroad's personal collection of over 600 coffee cups is part of the LSM collection, as well as several paintings and some photographs, some maps, and science and technology artifacts. The manuscript collection documents many of the cups, especially those given by Frances Parkinson Keyes. Those wishing to research the following should consult this collection: William B. Reily and family, WW II rationing and price controls, Sidney Besthoff, menus/programs {especially special dinners at Antoine's} and in honor of Richard Nixon and Moon Landrieu, the opening the Bonnet Carre spillway, sports {horseracing and fishing}, and upper class leisure activities {mostly vacations in Europe and other destinations as well as at second home in Pass Christian, Mississippi}.

Mid twentieth century customs re weddings and how women secretaries performed their jobs as well as Judaism in the mid-twentieth century New Orleans and the Louisiana/New Orleans coffee and sugar trade during this period are documented.

Of special interest are .75 in. feet of correspondence (c. 1945-1962) between Burkenroad and Frances Parkinson Keyes. This consists mainly of short notes between the two concerning the many cups Keyes gave to Burkenroad. There are occasional references by Keyes to her work, especially those novels written about Louisiana. Because she made several references to the J. Aron Co. in her work All This is Louisiana, Burkenroad hosted a special party for Keyes when the work was published.

When the Aron Co. moved to new quarters at Magazine street, the interior of the business was featured in several publications housed in this collection.

JOHN BLISS WARREN LETTERS
(Presbyterian Church in Louisiana)

1997.1.24.4.1-11

1835-1846

11 folders

Warren (c. 1800-1845), described in the Dictionary of Louisiana Biography, was born in New England (probably Massachusetts). An evangelist assigned to preach the Presbyterian message in Plaquemines and Ascension parishes in 1839, Warren helped to found the Presbyterian Church in Mobile, Ala., and then founded the Louisiana Institute. He published an anti-Roman Catholic newspaper, the New Orleans Protestant, 1844-1846. Warren preached the first sermon delivered at the First Presbyterian Church in the City of Lafayette (now part of New Orleans) in December, 1844. He presided over this church until it was organized.

Of the 11 letters included in this collection, 9 are addressed to Warren’s brother and sister living in Massachusetts, and document the efforts of a Protestant clergyman to “spread the word” in antebellum, pro-Catholic south Louisiana. Several of the letters discuss yellow fever and cholera. Other letters describe a false report that he was lynched, the possibility of assassination, the difficulty of converting Louisianians to Protestantism, the difficult economic conditions in New Orleans, the Mississippi River, temperance, family news. The last two letters in the collection were written by Warren’s wife, T. K. Warren, after her husband’s death in 1845, and describe Warren’s final (undisclosed) illness and death and his faith. 11 items.

PHYLLIS MCPHEETERS DONATION
(Samuel and Emma Templeton/William G. Wylly)

2000.131.1-13

1863 - 1928

Documents re claims to US Congress for the recovery of money lost from the confiscation of cotton during the Civil War. Samuel Templeton, a Union sympathizer, owned a cotton plantation in Carroll Parish, near Goodrich's landing on the Mississippi River. In order to protect his cotton, Templeton moved the cotton to higher ground west of Bayou Macon. 30 bales of Templeton cotton were seized by Union troops and subsequently sold in Cincinnati by the federal government. The documents housed in this collection record his family's attempts to be reimbursed for the confiscated bales. Included in the collection are a Civil War pass, loyalty oath, and certificate qualifying Templeton to vote.

Of additional significance in the collection are documents relating to William G. Wyly (1831-1903), who became a justice of the Supreme Court of Louisiana. Wyly and his brother, James G. Wyly, Templeton's brothers-in-law, also filed claims for reimbursement for confiscated cotton. After Templeton's death, the two men assisted their niece, Emma Templeton Wood, in her attempt to recover damages from the government. The collection includes letters of introduction, including one from Henry Clay Warmoth, given to W.G Wyly, Wyly's deposition, and a pamphlet outlining the Wyly brothers' claim against the government.

Paul Capdeville (1842-1922), an attorney, served as mayor of New Orleans 1900-1904, and was appointed state auditor in 1904, a position he held until his death in 1922. From 1892-1905 Capdevielle served as president of the Merchant's Insurance Company.

Many of the documents in this collection were removed from Capdevielle's wallet. The collection includes calling cards from Mrs. Albert J. Laplace, John Journée, Mrs. William Alling Mazarat, Mrs. C. Ricau, Mrs. Louise Dufour Goodrich, Mrs. William Philip Hagerty, as well as membership cards (Elks, Knights of Columbus, New Louisiana Jockey Club), prayer cards (two distributed at the funeral of Capdevielle's son, James in 1920; others signed by Alma Capdevielle) a few drafts of letters Capdevielle wrote concerning insurance claims, overcharges on a water bill, and a letter sent to Albert Estopinal, Jr. (St. Bernard Parish), concerning the death of Estopinal's father. Three documents concern an agreement to transfer an insurance policy from M. Schuppert to Edgar Larue.

The collection also houses a ticket to the French Opera Club, a Christmas card from Francis Janssens, Archbishop of New Orleans, several railroad passes to Capdevielle's summer home in Bay St. Louis, Mississippi, a certificate conferring the Order of St. Olaf upon Capdevielle in 1901, a family pass to the Crescent City Jockey Club, an invitation to a luncheon held aboard the steamship Comus honoring Theodore Roosevelt, an admit card to attend a banquet held at the Hotel Grunewald in honor of William Howard Taft, three prayers written in Capdevielle's hand (one of them on the back on a blank pledge to abstain from consuming alcoholic beverages), a baggage claim check, a receipt for registered mail, and a warrant signed by Capdevielle authorizing payment to himself for his salary as state auditor (1921). Two of the documents are from Armand Capdevielle, Paul's brother, editor of L'Abeille newspaper (The Bee). Some the calling cards and prayer cards are black-bordered, representing early 20c funereal practices.
